Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Sunday 19 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Evening showers fading, a lot of fine weather on Monday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Heavy, perhaps thundery showers in parts of east and southeast England will fade, though a few outbreaks of rain continuing here. Many other areas fine with clear spells allowing it to become rather chilly, with a few fog patches.

Monday:
Many areas seeing plenty of sunshine after patchy fog clears. Parts of east and southeast England cloudier with scattered showers. Patchy rain and brisk winds affecting parts of northwest UK.

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Mostly dry in the south with sunny spells and overnight fog patches. Turning more unsettled and potentially windy elsewhere with rain at times, heaviest and most prolonged in the northwest.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.